

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Sunday 16 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:

Rather cool, showery weather continuing for most, although occasional sunshine.

This Evening and Tonight:

Evening showers, some heavy and perhaps thundery across southern and central UK, tending to fade, though continuing for some. Otherwise turning drier, with a few patches of mist or low cloud, and chilly where clearest, for example across Northern Ireland.

Monday:

Another showery day, with some heavy, thundery showers by afternoon, focused in eastern, southern and central areas, probably fewer in the west by then. A little warmer for some parts.

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:

Rather cool with sunny spells, heavy showers and perhaps some thunderstorms. Fewer showers and more sunshine on Wednesday. Potentially turning wet and windy on Thursday, especially in the west.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.